Business Stand

AND DWELLING IN GETTYSBURG, AT PRIVATE SALE.

THE undersigned, intending to remove to Lancaster, offers at Private sale, his desirable BUSINESS STAND AND DWELLING, next door to the Eagle Hotel, on Chambersburg street Gettysburg. The lot runs from the street to an alley on the north, and the improvements consist of a newly-built THREE-STORY BRICK HOUSE, with Brick Back-building, having a large Store Room on the first floor and Parlors on the first and second floors, designed and used for an extensive Ice Cream and Confection business. The house is modern in style, of attractive appearance, substantial, roomy and convenient. It has an excellent cellar under the whole, and is supplied with water and gas. There is also a Workshop and a large ICE HOUSE on the lot, both of recent erection.

So rare a chance for the purchase of a first-class business stand is not often presented, one so complete in all its parts, and commanding so large a trade.

Buyers are requested to call early and inspect the premises. Terms will be made easy, and possession given inside of thirty days.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD,

GREAT TRUNK LINE

AND

United States Mail Route.

THE attention of the traveling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of travel. In stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are imbedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

Construction and Equipment

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrate the farseeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis, and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

WITHOUT CHANGE,

THE SCENERY OF THE PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

A PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.

WEST FAIRLEE, VT., Jan. 11, 1871.

Dear Sir—For seven or eight years past I have been in poor health, and for the past year or more very feeble. My health continued to decline and my flesh and strength wasted away, until I was unable to work, or even go up stairs without great exhaustion. I suffered from frequent and distressing attacks of palpitation of the heart, my food distressed me, causing acidity and pain in the stomach; and I suffered from extreme nervousness, constipation and debility of the system generally, my blood being thin and poor and sluggish in circulation, and I was for years suffering all the tortures of a confirmed dyspeptic. About six months since I concluded I would try a bottle of Peruvian Syrup, and received so much benefit from it that I purchased five bottles more, and have continued the use of the Syrup until quite recently. It has restored my health to such an extent that I feel myself as good as new. My digestion is good and my weight has increased in the past four months from 120 to 138 pounds; my strength has returned and my general health is thus wonderfully improved, and I can truly say I owe it all to the use of your Peruvian Syrup. I earnestly recommend all sufferers from dyspepsia and debility to give it a trial, hoping it will do them as much good as it has done me.

Yours very truly, MRS. S. B. REMIS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

From a Merchant.

NORTH SEARSMONT, ME., Sept. 9, 1870.

Dear Sir—It gives me very great pleasure to inform you of the benefit received from the use of Peruvian Syrup in my own family. My wife, for the past ten years, has been in feeble health—very much debilitated generally. Last Spring she concluded to try a bottle of Peruvian Syrup, and was so well pleased with the result, continued its use until three or four bottles had been used, and she is now in better health than at any time for ten years, and has increased in weight from 110 pounds to 125½. I have employed physicians and used a great variety of patent medicines, to the extent of hundreds of dollars, and I know she received more benefit from the Peruvian Syrup than all the rest together.

My sales of the Syrup are very large and constantly increasing, and I do not hesitate to recommend and even warrant it to give satisfaction. If you desire you need liberty to use this communication as you see fit, as it gives me pleasure to recommend so good an article to suffering humanity.

Yours truly, ITHIEL PEASE.

PERUVIAN SYRUP
PERUVIAN SYRUP

Restored to Complete Health.

BROOKS, ME., Sept. 7, 1870.

Dear Sir—From early youth I was in feeble health, troubled with humor in my blood, weakness and debility of the system generally; was unable to labor much, and only at some light business, and then only with great caution.

Seven years ago the past Spring I had a severe attack of Diphtheria, which left my limbs paralyzed and useless, so I was hardly able to walk or even sit up. Noticing the advertisement of Peruvian Syrup I concluded to give it a trial, and to my great joy soon found my health improving. I continued the use of the Syrup until three bottles had been used, and was restored to complete health and have remained so to this day.

I attribute my present health entirely to the use of Peruvian Syrup, and hold it in high estimation. I cannot speak too highly in its praise. I have in several cases recommended it in cases very similar to my own with the same good results.

Yours truly, CHAS. E. PEARCY.

THE CHAMPION

FANNING MILL

MANUFACTURED at Racine, Wisconsin, is guaranteed as a substantial and durable machine in every respect. It is universally known throughout the Great West as the

from the fact that it received the $50 premium awarded by that organization for the best Mill, in competition with thirteen other leading Mills from several states. It is considered on all hands to be the best in use for separating OATS, CHEES, RAT BALLS, BLACK SEED, COCKLE, &C. It has a spout on the side of the Mill for the purpose of separating the No. 1 from the No. 2 wheat, thus supplying the farmer with good, plump, healthy and CLEAN SEED WHEAT, and by which the cockle is removed from the No. 1 wheat. It has a consisting of Hurdle and Screen, which will effectually clean Clover, Timothy or other Grass Seeds more rapidly than any other Mill in the market; and by reason of the greater amount of cleaning surface, in which feature this Mill excels all others of the same relative size, one-third greater capacity is secured. It will clean from 60 to 80 bushels of wheat, with a twelve-year-old boy at the crank, in an hour.

☞Farmers are requested to call and see the "CHAMPION" in operation at the warehouse of B. S. BENNER & CO., before purchasing, or on the subscriber, who has accepted the agency for Adams county, at his farm, near Mummasburg.

is a self-binding harvester. One man can drive the team and operate the machine. It binds the sheaf with wire and drops it off, falling on the butt of the sheaf. This new harvester is now being introduced in this county. It is the most popular harvester in the market. Also for sale the

KIRBY REAPERS AND MOWERS.

The above described machinery is manufactured by the D. M. Osborne Company, at Auburn, N. Y.

Also all machines that are manufactured by P. P. Mast & Co., of Springfield, Ohio, consisting of the Buckeye Grain Drill, which sows all kinds of grain and timothy seed and phosphate. This drill is proving itself to be second to none. Also BUCKEYE WALKING CORN CULTIVATORS AND BUCKEYE RIDING CORN CULTIVATORS, BUCKEYE CIDER MILLS, SILVER AND DEMING FEED CUTTERS. Also the manufactured by Mast, Foost & Company, of Springfield, Ohio.

Also Corn Shellers, Reynolds' Grain Fans, Horse Rakes of different makes, Ploughs, Glen Rock Chilled Plough, Glen Rock Barshear. Also the genuine WALLACE PLOUGH, and the Pittsburgh Steel Ploughs of different kinds, Double shovel Ploughs and Steel Shovels for sale for ploughs. Also pure Slaughterhouse Bone and pure Phosphate, and ingredients for phosphates, for sale.

All Machines and Implements offered are of the best in the market. Farmers and others are invited to call at Machinery Hall, adjoining the Benner & Cress Warehouse, on Washington street, at the Railroad, where the above described machinery and implements can be seen; where I will attend personally on Wednesday and Saturday of each week, and will be glad to show these implements. Give me a call and examine my stock before you purchase.

THE CROW THAT THE CROW CROWED.

"Ho! ho!"
Said the crow:
"So I'm not s'posed to know
Where the rye and the wheat,
And the corn kernels grow—
Oh! no,
Ho! ho!"

"He! he!
Farmer Lee,
When I fly from my tree,
Just you see where the tops
Of the corn-ears will be;
Watch me!
He! he!"

Switch swirch,
With a lurch,
Flopped the bird from his perch,
As he spread out his wing
And set forth on his search—
His search—
Switch-swirch.

Click!—bang!
How it rang,
How the small bullet sang
As it sped through the air—
And the crow, with a pang,
Went spang—
Chi-bang.

THE TAIL FEATHERS.

Now know,
That to crow
Often brings one to woe;
Which the lines up above
Have been put there to show,
And so,
Don't crow.

S. Conant Foster, St. Nicholas for August.

JEANIE'S FIRST SORROW.

BY SIDNEY THORNE.

Jeanie Moore was the prettiest girl in Groveland. "None knew her but to love her," as the poet says, and old Farmer Moore was prouder of his one daughter than of all his lands, and well he might be.

This summer Jeanie had come home from boarding school for good, and the old farm rang with her clear bird-like tones as she flew from room to room, leaving tokens of her dainty womanly presence everywhere.

Young Dr. Lowell had been a boarder at the farm for three years. When he had first seen Jeanie she had been a little winning girl, quite willing to be taken on the grave young man's knee, and listen thoughtfully as he and her father talked.

But now things were quite different, and as Howard Lowell watched the graceful form crowned by the lovely flower-like face, and each day saw the pure unselfish nature unfold more and more, he grew to look upon her in another light and to think that it would be very sweet to have that blooming face grow more and more bright at his approach than at any other.

So the days went by, and although no words had as yet broken the sweet silence, the two young hearts were knitting fast together when my story opens. Jeanie had changed from a shy, blushing school girl into a beautiful self-possessed maiden, conscious in her inmost heart of being loved, and of returning that love.

One evening, as they all sat around the cosy tea table, little Fred, Jeanie's brother, bounded into the room, full of news which evidently seemed very important to him.

"Oh, father, the big house has been bought!" Now the "big house," as Fred called it, was the house of Groveland. High up on a hill it towered in its gray stone stateliness above all the rest of the village. It had been unoccupied for many years.

"Well, I'm glad of that," heartily exclaimed farmer Moore. "It's a shame so much fine property should have gone to wreck and ruin so long, when it might be made such an ornament to the village. Do you know who has bought it, Freddy?"

"Yes, sir, it is a widow lady named Almer, and she has two daughters."

Dr. Lowell here gave a sudden start, which caused Jeanie to glance over at him, and to her surprise she saw he was violently agitated. His face was white as death, and with his lips parted he looked fixedly at Freddy, as if waiting to hear more.

Seeing his emotion attracted attention, he hastily arose and without speaking, left the room.

Jeanie's interest in Freddy's news was entirely lost in her wonderment over Dr. Lowell's strange demeanor. It was quite late in the evening before he rejoined them; but when he came back he was as self-possessed and quiet as ever, yet there was something peculiar in his manner, and Jeanie felt the change. Unlike most women, she refrained from asking any questions.

It was true "Waban Hall" had at last found occupants. Mrs. Almer and her two daughters were pleasant and unaffected, and it was not long before the new-comers became well acquainted in the village.

After a time Jeanie called to welcome them and extend the hospitality of the farm, and she returned home delighted with her visit. Mrs. Almer was so kind, and the girls, Ella and Ruth, so charming and friendly. Jeanie talked enthusiastically for some time about her new friends and Dr. Lowell listened to all she said eagerly.

After a few weeks invitations came to the farm for a party to be held at the "Hall."

"Shall you go, little one?" questioned her father.

Jeanie looked up at Dr. Lowell, and was surprised again by the odd pallor of his face.

It was decided they should go, and the eventful evening arrived. The "Hall" was ablaze with light and fragrant with the aromatic perfume of flowers, and as Jeanie entered the ball room on the doctor's arm, her girlish heart gave a great bound. She had been to but few parties, and youth loves life and gayety.

But her pleasure that evening was not what she had expected, and as she lay in her own little bed at home that night, and thought over her lover's bewildering conduct, the pretty head buried itself in the pillows, and anyone listening might have heard smothered sobs.

Shortly after their arrival her escort had left her and devoted himself to Ella Almer. Not that Jeanie was neglected—that her beauty and popularity never allowed her to be—but she had watched with a keen pain her lover's manner toward Miss Almer.

From their first meeting the reserve which he generally held toward strangers had been wanting and he seemed to become more and more engrossed in her society.

The long walk home that evening had been taken almost in silence, and Jeanie's heart, all unused to trouble, sank very low, as she thought she had been unmaidenly in giving her love so freely, and now her punishment had come. Yet a heart once out of one's keeping cannot be called back suddenly without pain.

And this was only the commencement of her sorrow. Day after day Dr. Lowell was a guest at "Waban Hall," and Jeanie often saw him and Ella Almer riding or walking together. Farmer Moore never noticed how grave the wearisome face was growing, for with the pride of womanhood Jeanie kept her grief to herself. She had made up her mind bitterly, that while she had been loving with all the fervor of her warm, impulsive heart, he, whom she had thought so noble, had been only trifling with her—testing his powers of pleasing.

She avoided meeting him as much as possible, and so the time passed, until one morning as she rose from the breakfast table, Dr. Lowell said:

"Can you speak with me a little while, Jeanie? It is almost impossible for me to see you alone lately."

Never had his voice pronounced her name more tenderly. Was he about to make her a confidante of his new-found love? Jeanie raised her eyes quietly to his face, then answering, "Certainly," led the way to the library.

She seated herself, and he, standing before her, after a slight pause, began:

"Jeanie, the time has come for this mystery to be explained, and I can tell you who I am."

The girl's large dark eyes opened widely.

"Who you are!"

"Yes," he said, laughingly. "I know I am Dr. Howard Lowell, practicing physician, of Groveland; but that is not all. Listen, and I will tell you the whole story.

"My father died when I was ten years old, leaving my mother a widow with three children. Between the eldest of the two girls and myself there was the most passionate attachment—indeed, we were all an unusually united family. But in three years my mother married again. Then my misery commenced. I cannot describe the persecutions my stepfather inflicted on me, whom alone of all the children he seemed to hate. Perhaps it was because of my then headstrong, impulsive nature, I was a passionate boy, and at last, driven desperate, I ran away from home and from my dearly loved mother and sisters.

"Then for years I was driven where fate willed, working here and there at anything, no matter how menial, until at last fortune, in the shape of a kind old physician, interposed.

"Dr. Lowell saw and became interested in me, and when he died left me, his adopted son, his wealth, on condition I took his name and never returned to the influence of my stepfather. And now, Jeanie, comes the most wonderful part of my story.

"I have found my mother and sisters at last, free from the one who made my boyhood so wretched. Shortly after I left home my stepfather had taken his family abroad, and from then until now we have never met.

"How I have longed to speak and declare myself! But, Jeanie, I feared that the prodigal who selfishly left all he held dear could never be forgiven; until last night my sister Ella spoke so tenderly and regretfully of the brother she had lost, I could keep silence no longer. I shall keep my dear adopted father's name, but Mrs. Almer, whom you already like so much, is my mother, and Ella and Ruth are my sisters."

Then, with an abrupt change in his voice, Dr. Lowell stooped, and raising the soft, little hand which lay listlessly in the girl's lap, clasped it firmly in his own as he said:

"Can my darling wonder that my manner has been strange and unlike myself?"

The expression in his loving eyes made Jeanie flush and tremble, and as she was gathered to his manly heart she knew that she had come to the end of her great sorrow.

It was a happy evening that followed, when in the "Hall" parlor, the newly-found brother and son brought the dimpled, blushing girl to his mother and sisters as another claimant for their love. And right cordially they welcomed her.

Old Farmer Moore was satisfied, too, for Jeanie and her husband will live with him, and the old farm will still echo the music of the blythe voice so dear to his heart.

A PRACTICAL joker had gone to a saloon and ordered a glass of beer, when a friend appeared at the door and beckoned him to go out for a minute. The intended drinker is afraid that in his absence some one may get away with the liquid, when a happy thought strikes him, and he wraps round the mug a scrap of paper inscribed:

"I have spit in this!"

He hastens to the door, communicates with his friend, and returns to find written in another hand beneath his warning—"So have I!"

GEORGE LEONARD, aged ninety-eight years and six months, was recently married at Montreal to Thirtlee Legault, a spinster of fifty. The groom served under Napoleon in the campaign in Egypt, fought in Canada, in 1812, is still hale and vigorous, and declares he is bound to live twenty years more.

"PA," said a little boy, five years old, "I saw a lion and a lamb lying side by side in the meadow the other morning." "Tut, tut, James. Don't tell such stories," said the father. "I tell you I did," persisted the child; "but it was a dandelion."

THERE is a pigeon roost in Potter county which is from two to three miles long and from one-half to three-quarters of a mile wide. Every tree is full of nests and hundreds of pigeons are constantly hopping from limb to limb.

THE wolf, says an old Russian proverb, changes its hair every year. The young lady of the present day beats that all to pieces; she changes her's every afternoon.

PEOPLE seem to prefer the milk of human kindness in the form of ice cream just now.

THAT HIRED GIRL.

When she came to work for the family on C—— street, the lady of the house sat down and told the girl that agents, book-peddlers, hat-rack men, picture-sellers, ash-buyers, rag men and all that class of people must be met at the front door and coldly repulsed, and Sarah said she'd repulse them if she had to break every broom stick in the city.

And she did. She threw the door wide open, bluffed right up at 'em, and when she got through talking, the cheekiest agent was only too glad to leave. It got so after a while that peddlers marked that house, and the door-bell never rang except for company.

The other day, as the girl of the house was wiping off the spoons, the bell rang. She hastened to the door, expecting to see a lady, but her eyes encountered a slim man, dressed in black and wearing a white necktie. He was the new minister, and was going around to get acquainted with the members of his flock, but Sarah was not expected to know this.

"Ah—um—is—Mrs.—ah!"

"Git!" exclaimed Sarah, pointing to the gate.

"Beg pardon, but I would like to see—to see Mrs. —"

"Meander!" she shouted, looking around for a weapon; "we don't want any flour-sifters here."

"You're mistaken," he replied, smiling blandly, "I called to—"

"Don't want anything to keep moths away—fly!" she exclaimed, getting red in the face.

"Is the lady in?" he inquired, trying to look over Sarah's head.

"Yes, the lady's in, and I'm in, and you are out!" she snapped; "and now I don't want to stand here talking to a fly-trap agent any longer. Come, lift your boots, and travel!"

"I'm not an agent," he said, trying to smile. "I'm the new—"

"Yes, I know you—you are the new man with the patent flat-iron, but we don't want any, and you'd better go before I call the big dog."

"Will you give the lady my card and say that I called?"

"No, I won't; we're bored to death with cards and handbills and circulars. Come, I can't stand here all day."

"Didn't you know that I was a minister?" he asked as he backed off.

"No, nor I don't know it now; you look like the man who sold the woman next door a one dollar chrome for eighteen shillings."

"But here is my card."

"I don't care for cards, I tell you! If you leave that gate open I will have to fling a flowerpot at you."

"I will call again," he said as he went through the gate.

"It won't do any good!" she shouted after him; "we don't want no prepared food for infants—no piano music—and no stuffed birds! I know the policeman on this beat, and if you come around here again, he'll soon find out whether you are a confidence man or a vagrant."

And she took the usual care to lock the door, and then went about her work.

HOW TO TAME A WOMAN.—Yesterday morning a man whose every look proved hungry and penniless halted before an eating stand at the Central Market to let his mouth water for awhile. The woman knew his worth and called out:

"Come, be jogging along. You won't get any food here unless you have the cash."

"My dear woman," he confidentially began as he drew nearer, "I am not hungry; I just left the breakfast table, after the heartiest meal I ever ate. I was not looking at your beautiful meats, your lovely cakes, or your rich and pies, but at yourself."

"What are you looking at me for?"

"I was wondering," he said, "if you were any relation to Lady Clare, of England. You have the same brown eyes, same beautiful hair—same sweet accent."

"I never knew her," replied the woman, as her face began to clear up.

"Didn't, eh? Well, I never saw two faces nearer alike in their sweet expression. I wish I had your portrait painted on ivory—I really wish I had."

She handed him half a pie and a piece of meat, and as he sauntered off she began hunting around for a piece of broken mirror.—Detroit Free Press.

YESTERDAY morning a heavy browed man, with the tramp of a dragoon, strode into the business office of the Hawkeye and ordered his paper stopped, right on a hyphen, never waiting to finish out the sentence. The man waited a moment to give the manager an opportunity to ask "why," but the manager went on answering a letter from the emperor of China, relative to the terms for the daily and special advertising rates, and didn't seem to take much interest in anything else. Finally the man broke out, "I know when I'm insulted if I am poor. Here was me, takin' this paper nigh onto eleven year, and when my daughter Sal was married last week, you must go and call her Sa-rah. We don't put on so much style as some folks, but it gravels us just as bad to be called out of our honest names." And the indignant subscriber, refusing to listen to any apologies or explanations, went up to Marion Hall and joined the other party.—Hawkeye.

THE Hudson-river ice trade proved so profitable this season that a new stock company is organizing in Albany with a capital of $100,000. One Albany ice man is said to have made $40,000 on his ice this year. This is from sales at wholesale to New York and Boston parties.

REUBEN H. REIFSNYDER, of Reading, has a silver coin of the size of a dollar, which bears the date of 719. The coin is consequently 1159 years old. It bears numerous figures and hieroglyphics, and is believed to be an English coin. The date and figures are very plain.

BARS of pure gold, weighing twenty ounces each, have been ploughed up at or near Lexington, N. C., to the value of some $10,000. It is supposed to be the proceeds of a stage robbery committed some forty-five years ago, when the thieves hid the metal.

ACCORDING to the Mt. Pleasant Dawn, the skeletons of three of the British General Braddock's men have been dug up near Black Lick. In one of the graves was an old fashioned flint lock musket, bearing the stamp, "1746, Lon."

HAYES'S COMPLICITY.—When an honest man and a staunch Republican like Gen. Barlow declared that the vote of Florida belonged to Mr. Tilden, when the Republican Supreme Court of that State declared the action of the canvassers illegal and fraudulent, Mr. Hayes undoubtedly knew that he was not entitled to the Presidency. That after the Presidential election he kept track of all the events and proceedings as carefully as any man in the country it would be preposterous to doubt.

Hayes's course after his inauguration adds to the proofs of his consciousness of the electoral frauds. If he really believed that "the poor negroes," in spite of the opposition of thousands of white assassins, had carried Louisiana for him, he would—we credit him with manliness and sense of duty sufficient for that—have sacrificed his fortune and his life rather than surrender the State to the men who, on the Republican theory, were the defeated enemies of the blacks. Yet he well knew that Nicholls was as rightfully Governor of Louisiana as he himself had been Governor of Ohio, and he preferred to admit, indirectly, the defect in his own title rather than follow the nefarious precedent set by his immediate predecessor. For his righteous course in this respect Mr. Hayes is entitled to credit. The reverse must be said of his rewarding with his patronage all the rascals who transferred to him the votes which he had failed to secure in an honest election. We do not believe that he loved or respected these men. On the contrary, it is obvious that he feared them. Had they simply done their duty, they would have no special claims upon him. But they had the power to disclose the wrongs committed in his behalf. They could disturb his peace and enjoyment of the wrongly acquired honors he holds, and their silence had to be purchased.—Buffalo Courier.

THE old man Smith, of Richfield, is a self sufficient sort of old fellow, and prides himself upon his riding abilities. One day he espied his young hopeful leading a colt to water rather gingerly, and remarked:

"Why on earth don't you ride that beast?"

"I'm 'fraid to; 'fraid he'll throw me."

"Bring that hoss here," snapped the old man.

The colt was urged up to the fence, and braced on one side by the boy, while the old man climbed on to the rails and socked himself on the colt's back. Then he was let go, and the old gentleman rode proudly off. Paralyzed by fear the colt went slowly for about twenty rods without a demonstration. Then like lightning his four legs bunched together, his back bowed like a viaduct arch, and the old man shot up in the air, turned seven separate and distinct somersaults and lit on the small of his back in the middle of the road, with both legs twisted around his neck. Hastening to him the young hopeful anxiously inquired:

"Did it hurt you, pa?"

The old man rose slowly, shook out the knots in his legs, brushed the dust from his ears and hair, and rubbing his bruised elbows, growled:

"Well, it didn't do me a dum bit of good. You go home."

A TERRIBLE story is told by the New York Times of Saturday. A Boston lady, on her way to Boston from Central New York, found herself apparently under the watch of two men, who pretended that she was insane and that they were her protectors taking her to the insane asylum. She appealed to the conductor for protection. Her terror and agitation, her tears and entreaties, were taken as proofs that she was insane. When the train arrived at Utica the two men took her forcibly from the train, put her in a hack, carried her to a remote disreputable house, robbed her, outraged her, and left her there. When her agonized husband reached her she was nearly dead, and her mind seriously affected. The criminals have not yet been discovered. The worst part of this story is that it seems to be laid mainly in New England, where the state of culture is higher than it is further South.

ABOUT a year ago at Stockton, California, a doctor in sinking an artesian well at a depth of sixty feet came upon something which prevented further progress. A drill lowered down rebounded with a hollow sound as though striking the roof of a house or the deck of a vessel. He then put down a sand pump and obtained a good stream of water, which brought up with it two brass nuts of peculiar pattern. For several weeks past the stream has brought up quantities of tow or oakum and scales of iron or copper. It is apparent that some sort of a vessel is sunk there, though how it came so far inland is a mystery, and a shaft will probably be sunk to explore the matter.

A WARNING.—Here is what an old and eminent writer says: Young man, don't be so haughty and consequential. Your parents' riches are by no means invulnerable. Far richer persons than they ever were are now poverty-stricken—even the wealth of millionaires has of late years taken to itself wings. And, worse yet, some who handled their thousands are now sweltering behind prison bars. This is, indeed, a queer world, with some mighty sudden changes, too. Therefore, beware of "ups and downs!" The old man that you are teasing to-day may be sitting in the jury box some future time, when you may be on trial for some offence.

DR. MULLER, chief physician of the German General Staff, who recently went to Japan to aid in erecting a military academy, was the first person obtaining an audience of the Mikado who did not take off his boots. Upon being informed that he could not enter the sacred presence without doing so, he replied that his master, the great Kaiser, ordered him to appear in full military uniform, and he was compelled to comply. His boots, he said, formed an important essential to the uniform, and he did not dare to present himself without them. The Mikado consented to the audience.

A RATTLESNAKE was killed near the Buckhorn, says the Altoona Tribune, which was twenty-four years old. He was five feet seven inches and a-half in length.

A LONG and cold winter is predicted.

"A PIOUS PLATFORM."

The real truth of the case is well stated by the Harrisburg Patriot in the following:

Now here is a pretty statement to be made in a particularly pious political platform:

"That to the law makers of both the dominant political parties we trace the enactment of these unwise and harmful statutes, and that repeated appeals to them for repeal or salutary amendment have been barren of result."

This appears as the third resolution in the platform adopted by the N. G. L. convention held in this city on Tuesday last. It is rather a bad state for a party that claims all the piety, virtue and wisdom a-going to begin with a false charge against another political organization. The "unwise and harmful statutes" which the resolution condemns were not passed by the Democratic party. The repressive legislation directed against the southern people after the war which paralyzed industry in nearly one-half of the Union was the sole work of the Republican party. The financial system under which the country has been brought to the verge of bankruptcy has been the invention of the Republican party. The bankrupt law, the so-called "credit-strengthening" act of 1869 and the resumption act, are all Republican measures. Some few Democrats in congress may have voted for those laws, but the exceptions do not form the rule and a few stray sheep do not compose the flock. If the N. G. L. party had been in power when those laws were made, would any other than the N. G. L. party be properly held responsible for their enactment? Certainly not. Well, the Republican party was in power, nay it was in absolute possession of both branches of the government when those laws were passed. Therefore the Republican party alone must be held responsible. More than this, the Democratic party, as soon as it attained to power in the national house of representatives, began to agitate the repeal of those laws. It did pass through the house a bill repealing the resumption act. It did pass a bill remonetizing silver. It did pass a bill making legal tender notes receivable for customs duties. It did put an end to extravagant expenditure of the public moneys. It did root out the corruptions in the administration of the government. It did stop the repressive legislation which crushed the industry of a large portion of the people. These facts are of record and they prove the N. G. L. resolution a delusion and a snare, if not something that ought to be called by a harsher name.

THURMAN will go into the Ohio canvass this year to make Republican furly. He says the contest in the state will be one of the most determined ever known, with the advantage largely in favor of the Democrats securing twelve and maybe fourteen congressmen. Thurman believes in the Potter investigation. He says: "If it hasn't done anything more, the investigation has shown the people what kind of cattle he [Hayes] controlled down there in Louisiana." He says also that while everybody knew before that the electoral votes of Louisiana and Florida were stolen for Hayes, the investigation is bringing into light the proof, and that he considers a highly important result. "Why," said he, waxing warm, as memories of the bitter fight he made on the electoral commission stole over him, "the Republicans knew all this rottenness at the time the commission was in session. None knew it better than the Republican members of the commission themselves, and that knowledge and the certainty that it would be brought to light by investigation was the reason for their persistent unanimity in refusing to go behind the returns."

IT has been the history of all inflations the world over, that though wages rise the cost of living rises faster. The banks know how to protect themselves, how to "stand from under," but upon the poor fall the miseries of the high prices of the necessaries of life and upon them fall inevitably the loss of employment when the inflation bubble bursts. The factories have to stop and the bankruptcies begin. We have nearly passed through this era of retribution for the inflations of the war. The Nationals want us to go through it all again, certain though it be that it will be worse next time.—Balt. Gazette.

IT was all right for Spooney Ogle to investigate the extravagance of the White House inhabitants, for John Covode to waste a year investigating the abuses of Buchanan's administration, to fill thirteen volumes investigating the Southern Ku-Klux, but it is all wrong to drag to light the perjury and forgery of the big and little scoundrels who stole a presidential office, and through that retain eighty thousand others.—Post.

GENERAL G. K. WARREN publishes a dignified protest in regard to General Grant's intimation that he was responsible for the failure at Petersburg after the mine explosion, but calls attention to the fact that General Hancock's court of inquiry upon the failure charged no part of the responsibility upon him. He also claims that he was not relieved at Five Forks until after the battle ceased, but that he led the final attack which completed the victory.

THERE are rumors in New York that James Gordon Bennett, familiarly known as "Jim James," got into a game of baccarat three weeks ago with a couple of Parisian gamblers and dropped $25,000 before the seance was through. The same parties plucked a Portuguese gentleman next day of $18,000 and decamped, as there were rumors of cheating.

GENERAL TOM THUMB and wife have grown corpulent in the last few years, and neither appears so diminutive as in their younger days. The General has been wealthy, but has lived extravagantly and spent a fortune in yachting and other sports, and possesses only a moderate competence. He is 41 years age.

A NEW COUNTERFEIT.—A new counterfeit has been discovered in the shape of a quarter of an eagle, made of silver and electro-gilt. It contains silver of about the value of ten cents, and having a clear ring, is likely to deceive persons who have not lately been accustomed to handle gold.

POLITICAL.—The Democracy of York county opened the campaign at Winterstown last Thursday. There was a large and enthusiastic turn out and speeches were made by Hon. Wm McSherry, Hon G E Sherwood, Prof Kain, Jas B Ziegler, Esq, and others

THE Greensburg Tribune, Republican, says that the Greenback party in Westmoreland is already showing signs of decay

IF Grant is the Republican nominee we predict that the South will request General Hancock's nomination —Pittsburg Herald.

SENATOR VOORHEES predicts a Democratic majority in both branches of the Indiana legislature and the largest majority for the Democratic state ticket given for any party in twenty years

THE Republican party in several of the southern states having disintegrated, what few Republicans survive are trying to "rally" under the National-Greenback Labor name Anything, so it's opposition to the Democracy

As the election approaches the Democrats feel more and more confident that they will carry the next House by 25 or 30 majority

SHOULD the Republicans fail to gain the House they will be "backed" to begin with and will go into the race of 1880 under discouraging circumstances —Cincinnati Commercial

JAS BARTHOLOMEW says that if Republican "Nationals" are elected to the Legislature they will vote for Don Cameron Jim is an old Republican politician and knows how the wires will be worked.

THE National Greenbackers seem to prefer Republicans as editors of their organs Such straws show !

IT is passing strange that the Maine Republicans failed to say anything about the Revolution or New Rebellion, which one of their foremost men, little Mr Hale, only a few months ago predicted as the result of the passage of the Potter investigation resolution Little Mr Hale should be searched to see what has become of that Rebellion, he may have it concealed in his breeches pockets —Times

BY Know Nothingism many Democrats were deceived into a fellowship never comfortable and always regretted That cheat should serve as a warning for all time

THE Democratic party needn't change its name after every defeat—because it is the party of the constitution and the people's rights

IT will be found that such fellows as Kearney and Cohen produce a deep seated disgust in the minds of the intelligent laboring classes, and the intelligent, in the long run rule the rest We believe that the severest blow that the Greenback-Labor party has received has been the advent of Kearney to the East —Balt Gazette

IN Clinton county prominent Greenbackers are returning to their old parties and several of Republican proclivities will "go one better" by voting the Democratic ticket

THE quarrel between the Labor men and Greenbackers in Schuylkill promises to result in the largest Democratic majority that county has rolled up for years Nearly the same is the case in Luzerne, which will give Dill four or five thousand majority

THOSE in the best positions to know confidently predict at least 20 000 majority for Dill in the State and it may be vastly greater

THE Greenback organs whilst pretending to drive at both the old parties, are plainly aiming their batteries at the Democracy This indicates their governing motive, and where they expect to land the concern some day

JOHN SHERMAN, more than any other living man is responsible for the growing dissatisfaction among the laboring classes

THE Tribune once in a while gets off a truthful sentence Witness the following "It is the misfortune of President Grant that the least decent people in the country are the most vociferous advocates of his nomination"

SCHUYLER COLFAX announces that he is still loyal to the Republican party As Schuyler is a bribe taker, it appears that birds of a feather still stick together

AFTER Kearney has accomplished the mission of filling his own pocket like the average labor reform leader he will retire upon the spoil and laugh at the credulity of those whom he has victimized This ever thus with third parties —Albany Tribune.

MR A N BRICE, of Sunbury, declines to make the race for the Senatorship in Dill's district on the Republican ticket, for the reason that a Democrat is certain to be elected

AMONG the delegates to the Schuylkill county "National" convention was Michael J Lundy, charged with embezzling over $3 000 of taxes and just released from jail on $2,000 bail

GOV NICHOLLS' administration of affairs in Louisiana is heartily endorsed by the best men of both parties in that State Like that of Gov Hampton's it is conservative and intended for the benefit of all the people

THE Shenandoah Herald (Greenback) has doubts as to the success of the Schuylkill county National ticket owing to the fact that there are no farmers on it Chronic office-seekers compose it

THE Democratic ticket is worthy of the support of every Democrat, and no one should hesitate in his duty toward it Be up and doing ! See to the assessments without delay !

WHAT unmitigated and transparent "Cragging" Greenback organs indulge in They seem to be doing it under order.

IN 1872 the Republican party reduced the tariff upon iron, steel, wool, metals paper, glass, leather and all manufactures of each of them ten per cent.

KEEP it constantly before the people that the policy and practice of the Republican party is, and for years has been, to create new offices, add enormous perquisites to others, and filling them with favorites whose chief employment is to manage political machinery

THE Miners' Journal the leading Republican organ of Schuylkill doesn't like the proposition that the Republican Convention shall indorse the National county nominees or upon a failure to do this leave nominations open The Journal vigorously says "To this prostitution of our party to a lot of political adventurers and banditti we protest, and call a halt to the politicians who have this disgraceful scheme in hand"

IT is a notorious fact that our legislation has for years been directed by Republican lobbyists, who also manipulate and control the party nominations, and that its candidates are the creation of a junta whose decrees are accepted as the irreversible mandates of absolute hereditary power

THE Sherman family, ten of whom hold office—three brothers, Secretary John Sherman, General Sherman and Judge Sherman, and their seven sons—has been a very expensive one to this country

DON CAMERON counts upon buying up the Labor Greenbackers if any are elected to the Legislature, to secure his return to the Senate But Old Prob says the Democrats will have a majority on joint ballot over all others and that will settle Don —Crusader

THE Wise Greenbackers of Carbon county decline to support the ticket which was nominated a few days ago, and as the committee declines to do anything in the premises another Greenback ticket is probable

A VOTE for Dill and the whole Democratic ticket will be a vote against corruption in the highest offices. That's the kind of a change we are going to get

THE Nationals did not carry Memphis as was at first reported and Chairman Dewees' "Hip, hip hurrah !" has died away in silence. It was an independent Democratic movement that overwhelmed things down there

DEMOCRATIC successes are reported in Tennessee except in a few counties

HON A H DILL, accompanied by Senator Allen, is about visiting the oil regions

THE PARTY OF THE FUTURE

It is not easy to perceive how any Democrat who has adhered to the fortunes of the grand old party through all the vicissitudes of the last fifteen years can persuade himself to abandon it to join some ephemeral organization now when it is entering on a career of assured power The elections of 1876 showed that the Democratic party is in a majority of a quarter of a million of the votes of the country This great majority remains substantially intact even where the Democratic party has been most fiercely assailed So far from losing ground since 1876 the Democrats have gained in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Oregon The Democracy are now in control of twenty-three of the thirty eight state governments In Pennsylvania they are in possession of every department of the state government except that over which Gov Hartranft immediately presides the auditor general's department, the treasury the department of internal affairs having one by one been wrested from the Republicans In the senate of the United States the Democratic majority is already secured beyond any contingency On the opening of the next congress this majority of the Democrats will not be less than ten and may be increased in the fall elections. For two successive elections the Democrats have carried the lower house of congress and there is nothing to cause any doubt that they will control the next house by a larger majority than that which exists at present By a fair apportionment that has been made in Ohio the Republicans will lose not less than four members In New England the present Democratic representation of six can hardly be diminished It will probably be increased in the conflicts between the Republicans and Greenback Labor organization In the southern states will be effaced what remains of Republican representation In Oregon a Democratic member has already been gained in the recent election

With the beginning of the next political year the Democrats will be in complete control of the legislative department of the national government for the first time in nearly twenty years While the Democrats are advancing to the possession of political power and gaining strength with each day the Republican party, deprived of its ancient war cries and overwhelmed by the reproach of a stolen presidency, is rapidly going to pieces There is scarcely a state in the Union in which the process of decay is not going on Is this a time then for Democrats who have faithfully adhered to the party to abandon the glorious organization ? If they are impatient that results have not been attained in legislation commensurate with their wishes they should remember that the Democrats have been in control of not one of the engines of political power As a minority the Democrats have been unable to shape the legislation of the country The best they could do was to restrain the licentiousness of the party in possession of the government But now they are about to enter upon political responsibility for the first time in twenty long years, and they are to be judged by their acts Instead of patiently waiting Democrats here and there have been persuaded to join one or another of the mushroom organizations that have sprung out of the corruption and decay of the Republican party to assail the national Democracy The political situation is somewhat analogous to that of 1852 The Whig party though dying showed signs of vitality at its extremities in Massachusetts and Vermont, Kentucky and Tennessee Then Know Nothings, Nativists Free-soilers, Barnburners and numerous other factions rose in the rear of the indomitable Democracy A like phenomenon is now witnessed in the decadence of the Republican party The "Nationals," Greenbackers, Knights of Labor, and other political organizations that have recently come to the surface are so many expressions of discontent with the policy and rule of the Republicans Attracted by the novelty some unreflecting Democrats have been induced to join these organizations instead of adhering to their old banner But such as have strayed away are fast returning to the ancient fold They feel that this is not a time to seek fellowship with factions that can obtain control of neither state nor national legislation They recognize that the political reforms which are necessary for the relief of the country can be accomplished only by the national Democracy who are again entering upon a long career of power They know that in the bosom of the Democracy, the party of the future, they have the ample guaranty for the protection of all the rights to which they are entitled under the constitution —Harrisburg Patriot.

IN response to the boast of the growing power of the Greenback-Labor party in Luzerne county the Scranton Free Press says "Judge Stanton's majority last fall on the labor ticket in the city of Scranton was between eighteen and nineteen hundred Mayor Powderly's majority this spring on the same ticket was between five and six hundred, and yet one mathematically inspired Mason maintains that the Greenback party is growing Yes like the cow's tail A party that claims to be organized in antagonism to the policy of the corporations and yet takes, as its nominee for governor, one of the most servile corporation attorneys in the state, must grow less"

DEMOCRATIC VICTORIES —MEASURING THE "QUANTITY"—Lexington, Ky, on Monday, elected the entire Democratic ticket by from 100 to 1,500 majority.

In Louisville, Blanton Duncan's National Labor Greenback party was utterly crushed, not a candidate on the ticket getting a respectable vote. The "side show" has already run its course there.

SUSAN B ANTHONY has taken her stand with the Greenbackers Of course Anything for "agitation" and notoriety

THE name of C E. Goldsborough has been substituted for that of Mr. Heltzel on the National Greenback-Labor ticket for Senator.

"In that convention of the Greenback party there was not a single gentleman who had ever been an applicant before any political convention for office of any kind so that the malicious falsehood of the editor, that they were 'disappointed office-seekers,' is apparent, and proves him to be either an arrant knave or an egregious ass, or more likely a mean compound of both"—Communication of C E G in Star and Sentinel

A FILE of Gettysburg papers now before us indicates that Dr C E Goldsborough was a candidate for the nomination of Assemblyman before the Adams county Democratic Convention in 187- Six ballots were cast Dr G received two (2) votes on the first ballot, one (1) on the second and none thereafter We are also told that he wished to become the nominee for Prothonotary, but had no one in the convention to propose his name, and that he has several times been an applicant for township offices at his home We have not positive facts to prove the genuineness of these latter assertions, and yet they are based upon the statements of trustworthy authorities The fact, however, of his being a "disappointed office-seeker" still remains in black and white, and remains as an evidence against the truth of his statement His malicious falsehood" now turns upon himself, and we trust he will soon learn that honesty is always the best policy" And now, with a better and clearer authority, we reverse his foul thrust and prove him to be either an 'arrant knave or an egregious ass or more likely a mean compound of both," and give to the public the falsity of his statement"—Hanover Citizen

DANGEROUS DOCTRINE —Farmers have evidently found themselves put in a very singular situation by the declaration of the National Greenback party in convention in New York, whereby the doctrine is laid down that all farming land ought to and must be made the property of the community at large, its yield to be divided on agrarian principles—its titles as they now exist swept from all records, and the deeds by which it is held the evidence of its purchase or inheritance, to be annulled There is a frankness in these avowals as continuing in the platform to which we refer that commands public attention and admonishes the farming interest of the country in their political duties —Nothing is so dear to the citizen as his right of property, his right of life, and his right in the pursuit of happiness It is for the protection of these that government has been instituted, and that government is best insured by the political party which takes the highest ground for the promotion and enlargement of the rights to which we have referred The farmer's surest safety in all that he values in business and holds dear in life is in the Democratic party and its success as is that also of the working man The ægis of such a party covers and ensures the rights and interests of all classes —Easton Sentinel

EVERY day more and more conclusively demonstrates that Senator Dill will be elected by a handsome majority, and that such is the general impression among Republicans is evidenced by the tone of their papers The decided opposition to the Camerons which is manifesting itself in various portions of the State, is calling out protestations from a number of the leading Cameron organs They do not hesitate to openly declare that those who do not support the Camerons are doing deadly injury to Hoyt As there are a great many who have no faith either in Simon or Don, and who have resolved to free themselves from the trammels which these two distinguished politicians have managed to fasten upon them we see nothing in the future but a complete Democratic triumph All that is now needed to make that an assured fact is the nomination everywhere of the very best men of the party as candidates for the Legislature It looks now as though we were really going to have two Democratic Senators from Pennsylvania —Phila Chronicle

GET REGISTERED —The regular assessment of registry lists for the coming fall election have already been made, and are now to be found posted at the polling places in the various districts as required by law Under the new constitution every person desiring to vote at the approaching November election must have resided for the period of two months—60 days—in the election district where he offers to vote, and if over twenty two years of age shall have paid within two years a State or County tax which shall have been assessed at least two months before the day of the election Citizens who wish to vote this coming fall had better examine the list of voters now in the hands of the Assessor, (or the one to be found at the election house) and see if their names are enrolled If not on the list, inform the Assessor at once of the omission

THE country has at long last had presented to it in definite form the true story of the leading incidents in the great fraud. No one now presumes to question how Louisiana voted, or refuses to admit that the electoral vote of States which would have elected Mr Tilden was stolen from him, and there is honor and honesty enough yet left among the masses of the people to utterly repudiate a party whose head holds his office by a villainous fraud —Chronicle

WE never had such crops as this when the Democrats were in power —Huntingdon Journal

Why, bless your innocent soul, the Democrats are now in power in a majority of the States of the Union, besides having a majority in the House at Washington and a nip-and-tuck in the Senate, to say nothing of the quarter million majority of votes we polled at the last Presidential election —Lewistown True Democrat

THE New York Nationals last week adopted a series of resolutions and nominated Gideon J. Tucker as their candidate for the Court of Appeals Their resolutions are in keeping with those passed by the conventions of the same party in other States, having a decided Communistic tendency —Phila Chronicle

WHEN the Republicans passed the financial measures which now so afflict the country, they denounced as "rebel" and "traitor" every Democrat who dared question their wisdom or propriety The Republicans are alone responsible, and there let the blame rest

FROM the Washington Post "Elections in four states have already been or will be held during the month of August and in no case has the Republican party made the slightest organized opposition This is evidently not the Augustan era of radicalism"

THE people are tired of Republican corruption, and begin to see that by Democratic success alone can it be checked. There are too many of the old worn out Republican leaders in the "side show" to inspire any confidence in that direction.

W M MASON, ESQ, an attorney in this county, says the Clarion Democrat, and brother of the Greenback Labor candidate for Governor, is President of a Dill club in Edenburg

THE Republican journals can not forgive Mr Dill for being a son of a Methodist preacher, and hence they are constantly making flings at him for not having had a permanent residence while a boy But as Andy didn't happen to have control of that matter we do not see why any blame should attach to him If the itinerant system of the Methodist denomination as applied to the clergy is wrong in the judgment of the highly refined religious sensitiveness of those Republican editors, or if they mean to have it understood that they believe it is improper for Methodist preachers to have sons let them attack the system and the progenitors of the sons Probably the system would survive the ponderous blows of the pious editors, but such an assault would be far more manly than the insidious one of attacking the innocent product of the system who was not consulted and could make no choice in the matter. It would seem that unless Methodist clergymen are willing that their sons shall be politically ostracised, they must see to it that their birthplace is within the state lines —Patriot

WHILE such Republicans as Judge Ketchum, Judge Harding and L D. Shoemaker carried Luzerne county with ease, Mr Hoyt, the Republican candidate for Governor, was always defeated when nominated for any office This does not speak well for Mr. Hoyt. The voters of his county must have had some good reasons other than political for always rejecting him —Tyrone Democrat

KEARNEY, in his opening speech, bandied such epithets as thieves, rascals, blood-suckers, murderers, etc, with a volubility that was truly appalling to the thrifty people of the "Hub," especially those who had managed to accumulate some property, and to whom these not very complimentary terms were understood to specially apply

THE Democratic party being a permanent institution, all "side shows" in politics, no matter how or by whom started, end in opposition to it. It was so with Know Nothingism, Republicanism, and all other isms After the present attempt to gull the people shall exhibit itself in its true colors the Democratic party will be stronger than ever

WHEREVER the Democrats are largely in the majority the Republicans encourage the Nationals, but in every county where they are in the ascendant they denounce the organization in unmeasured terms It is "good god and good devil," as circumstances require

FOR many years the people have been sowing the seeds of Republicanism through the ballot box, and now they are reaping the harvest of idleness, poverty, crime, starvation and rags They will sow Democratic seed liberally next November, and quite a different crop will be forthcoming

A DOYLESTOWN correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says Hon Hiram Yerkes will be returned to the Senate by a large majority and that Ross and Dill will make Bucks the banner county, securing it by the largest vote ever polled

HEAVY STORMS —PHILADELPHIA, Aug 1 —A heavy thunder storm accompanied by rain and a gale of wind swept over the city between 5 30 and 6 o'clock this evening The rain came down in torrents, choking up culverts and doing damage in all parts of the city Twenty feet square of the roof of Wanamaker's clothing depot at Thirteenth and Market streets gave way under the weight of water accumulated thereon and flooded the shirt department Fortunately the accident occurred after all the customers and most of the employes had left the building Lockard Brown one of the salesmen had his leg injured The damage to the stock will not exceed $400 The Twelfth district station house and the spire of the Episcopal Church at Eighth street and Columbia avenue were struck by lightning though little damage resulted The Permanent International Exhibition building was severely damaged the roof being torn off in many places and the floor flooded Exhibits were not badly injured The roof of Machinery Hall, opposite the Permanent exhibition building, fared badly, and great loss to the building was sustained.

DECLINES —Capt J L Miller who was placed upon the Greenback ticket without his knowledge or consent, also declines He hands us the following card for publication in the COMPILER —

BONNEAUVILLE, Aug 1 1878

MR STAHLE Through the county papers and by official notification from the chairman of the Adams county Greenback-Labor Convention, assembled at Gettysburg on July 13th I learn that my name has been placed upon their ticket as the candidate for the office of Sheriff This nomination, after mature consideration I shall decline to accept, as I never have coveted my political favor of any party, and am not in position to accept any now I hope this will be satisfactory to all interested

Yours very Respectfully,
J L MILLER

A LADIES' FAIR, Festival and Tournament will come off at Arendtsville, this county, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 29, 30 and 31 The best preparations are already in progress, and a lively and pleasant time may be expected The people of this and adjoining counties cordially invited

SALES —The farm of George Hollabaugh deceased, in Butler township, was sold on Saturday to Emanuel C Rice—120 acres at $21 75 amounting to $3,102 75

MR LEVI H Stallsmith has purchased a lot of ground on York street from Mr Henry Culp of P, at $400 and will erect a house on it shortly

BARN BURNED —The barn of Wm Brough about a mile from Michael Stambaugh's mill in Huntington township, was struck by lightning on Tuesday afternoon and entirely consumed with Mr Brough's entire crop, threshing machine, horse gears and most of his farming implements The building was an almost new bank barn, and we understand, covered by insurance in the Dover Company—$2 000 on barn, and $900 on crop

REMARKABLE ESCAPE —On Monday afternoon, Mr Daniel D Bucher, residing near Arendtsville, had a narrow escape A rain setting in he took shelter under an oak tree in a field, but the storm increasing, he thought it best to go to the house, and started in that direction. He had, however, left the tree only a short distance, when a thunder bolt struck and shivered it to pieces Broken limbs were thrown a hundred yards in opposite directions

THE Republican County Convention was held in the Court house on Monday—a tame and spiritless affair, the delegates and aspirants for nominations making up the crowd" Mr J S Witherow was called to the Chair, with Messrs Francis Coulson and Joseph A Eckenrode as Vice Presidents, and Capt C G Miller and J N Durboraw, Esq, as Secretaries

A resolution was adopted to make no nominations for Congress and the State Senate, leaving the choice of candidates to the respective conferences, and another to limit the nominations for Assembly Commissioner and Auditor to one person in each case The bad blood heretofore resulting from the "cutting" done over party candidates for the two latter offices no doubt suggested the adoption of the "limit" resolution, but the same reason hardly applies to the Assemblyship—There may be an "eye to the windward" for a coalition with something or somebody Two members are to be elected, and whether Republicans will confine their votes to one is a thing to be found out Time will tell

In the afternoon the following ticket was nominated

For Assembly, R G McCreary Esq of Gettysburg McCreary 10 A A Wierman 12

Sheriff, John L Hartman, of Franklin, Hartman 10, Hez Kuhn 12 Before the ballot C C Heder Esq Jacob Mickley D of D and Wm A McIlhenny withdrew

With the several tickets in the field it becomes Democrats to get ready for work Let all rally under the old flag for a sweeping victory

IMPROVEMENTS—Mr James M Robinson with six bricklayers, put the third story on Wasson's hotel, in New Oxford, in twenty hours' work He also has the contract for the brick work of the new school house in East Berlin and has on the way a large two story stone house for O Klund in York county

Mr E J Carbaugh is building a new frame house 22 by 34 in Franklin township, and H G Comfort a two-story log corner post frame, 18 by 24, near by

Littlestown is improved with half a dozen fine new houses this summer

PA COLLEGE GETTYSBURG—The next session will open September 5th The institution has a full faculty, of high character, and enjoys a deserved reputation for thorough educational work The town is healthy, orderly and quiet and special attention is given to the moral and other interests of students The dangers that surround so many academic schools do not exist here The Preparatory Department under the direct supervision of the faculty, offers special inducements for boys or young men preparing for business or college classes For information or catalogues address President Valentine or Prof Bikle Principal of the Prep Department

IN the contest for the Democratic Congressional nomination in Cumberland county, at Saturday's primaries F Beltzhoover received 2 341 votes Bratton 1 029, Gorman 618 Hepburn 372, W Briggs 65 Mr F M Ebersole of Carlisle, and Robert McCachren of West Pennsboro were nominated for the Legislature, for Prothonotary, Robt M Graham, of W Pennsboro' for Clerk of the Courts John Sheaffer, of Silver Spring for Register, John M Drawbaugh, of Carlisle, for Treasurer John Cocklin of Silver Spring, for Commissioners Jacob Barber, of Lower Allen Hugh Boyd, of Hopewell for Director of the Poor, Reuben S Koch, of Lower Allen for Auditors, Samuel Green of Penn, Fred Porter, of Shippensburg borough

A LAD aged 13 years, grandson of Jacob Snowberger, residing with Mr Marrow Burns, near this place, says the Waynesboro' Record, recently whilst asleep crawled out of a window from the second story of the house It appears the window frame was down but one 10 by 12 pane of glass had been broken, through which small opening he passed On alighting he got up and returned to his bed without any injury except bruising one of his feet which lamed him a few days He told the family he would not sleep in the same room until a pane of glass was put in the window

ROBBERS CAPTURED —Two tramps, giving their names as John Lemon and John Myers were arrested last week near Dillsburg, and on being searched a watch and some money stolen from the house of Mr Beltzhoover, at Boiling Springs, on Monday night previous were found on them They were taken to the residence of Mr Beltzhoover, where they were fully identified as the robbers They were lodged in the Carlisle jail next morning They claim to know the authors of other depredations which have been committed recently in the Cumberland valley and say they will expose them

THE LAST ONE —Hon Daniel Sheaffer, the oldest resident of York Springs, and one of the oldest in the county, being now in his 90th year, walked down to Dr Dill's office one day last week and seating himself in a chair had the Doctor to extract his last tooth Considering his great age it was a big undertaking, showing that he still retains some of the "grit" of younger days —Comet

ORE PROSPECTS —Several parties, practical ore men and experienced miners, have been prospecting for copper on the South Mountain, not far from the Monterey House, during the past few weeks, with the most gratifying results Prominent among those referred to is a Mr Bechtel from the mining regions of Nevada He is prospecting on the farm belonging to D B Russell, Esq We understand they have recently taken out a considerable quantity of rock which promises to yield over 20 per cent It seems to be no longer a question as to whether the metal abounds there in sufficient quantities to warrant further developments Mr Bechtel is of the opinion that they are operating in a mineral region where additional and more startling developments are possible sooner or later All the indications now favor the supposition that the deposits in that locality are vast There is no telling therefor what untold wealth may be concealed from sight in that mountain range, extending possibly for many miles We are told large bodies of land have lately been leased in that section by other parties, so that the business of prospecting there promises to be conducted in a very short time There will no doubt be a demand for land in that region, and first purchasers will likely fare the best —Waynesboro' Record

SHORT STOPS.—It is predicted that next winter will be a cold one.

—The Illinois Central Railroad now has a line of refrigerator cars between Chicago and New Orleans.

—Georgia is raising her finest corn crop.

—All the recent Indian outbreaks have been caused by the agents cheating the red man. It's the Government that hastens these outbreaks by putting thieves in office.

—Waynesboro' can now hardly fail to get [illegible].

—A negro who recently arrived at Cincinnati from New Orleans died of yellow fever Thursday.

—On Saturday night week, about 12 o'clock, the barn of Noah Engle, three miles south of Frederick, with its contents, consisting of 1,500 bushels of unthreshed wheat, about 70 bushels of old cloverseed, 75 or 80 tons of hay, a lot of rye straw, a quantity of threshed wheat, farming implements, &c., was entirely consumed by fire.

—The Supreme Court decided that a man who gets drunk three times a year is legally a drunkard. That appears to be drawing the line pretty sharply.

—At the Buffalo races on Saturday Rarus trotted a mile in 2.13¼, beating Goldsmith Maid's time of 2.14 and making the shortest time a mile was ever trotted in.

—The Columbia Grays, Co. "H," 11th Regt. N. G., of Pa., will encamp at York on the 14th inst. and remain there for several days. Company "A," Capt. [illegible] Z. Strine, will receive them.

—A dispatch from Lancaster says that a young woman named Sallie Hartney, of Carlisle, was arrested near that city on a charge of infanticide. She was seen on the road with a babe in her arms, entered a woods, emerged a half mile further on without it, and a search disclosed its dead body under some logs.

—The miners employed at the Big Mountain Colliery, Shamokin, struck for an advance of ten cents which has been refused them. There are nearly 300 men and boys idle at Shamokin in consequence of the above strike and the one at the Buck Ridge Colliery.

—Dr. Dale's excursion left York Tuesday morning for Niagara Falls and Watkins Glen with about one hundred passengers.—At Harrisburg the number of excursionists was increased to three hundred.

—Mr. John Quickel, of Dover township, York county, killed a snake, out of which he took sixty young ones, all about six inches long. The mother snake was only about 3½ feet long. This prolific "varmint" was found and dispatched on Daniel Hammes's farm, in said township.

—The meetings at Summit Grove Camp are increasing in interest and the attendance good.

—The Hagerstown Herald and Torch Light says that while there are some fields of wheat in Washington county, Maryland, that will yield thirty-five bushels to the acre, the average yield throughout the county will not reach twenty bushels to the acre.

—Col. A. K. McClure will deliver the annual address at the exhibition of the Pennsylvania state agricultural society, to be held at Erie, September 26, next.

—Mr. John Aller, of St. Thomas township, Franklin county, is the owner of a buck of the Bakewell breed with four horns. The extra pair of horns are about four inches long and curve towards the head.

—At a pigeon shooting match at Hagerstown, Md., on Wednesday week, Samuel Doub was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of William Kokeman.

—On Saturday evening last, the large barn on the farm belonging to Mr. Geo. H. Stewart, situated on the turnpike a short distance below Shippensburg, was struck by lightning and set on fire. The building, with its contents including the tenant's, Mr. Jos. Poe's, crops, was totally consumed.

The wholesale grocery house of R. M. Bishop & Co., the senior partner of which is the Governor of Ohio, suspended on Saturday with liabilities amounting to something over $500,000. The amount of assets is not yet ascertained. The firm has been in existence thirty years and has done a large business, running some years as high as $5,000,000. It is composed now of Governor Bishop, and his three sons, William, Robert and James. In an interview the Governor attributed their suspension to the great shrinkage in values that had taken place in all kinds of property, and to the numerous failures of their customers in the country.

FARM AND HOUSE.

MORE WHEAT TO THE ACRE.

That ten, fifteen, and even thirty bushel wheat crops are not the largest that any good wheat-soil is capable of producing, is a fact patent to every intelligent farmer; yet thousands go on raising these comparatively unprofitable crops even though the means are at hand for largely increasing them. It is really quite within the possibilities of any farm suitable for raising wheat at all, to grow an average crop of over 30 bushels per acre; and 40, 50, and 60 bushels may reasonably be expected under proper culture. Such crops are rather the rule than the exception on good English wheat farms, but are quite rare in this country.

The cost of fitting the soil, of seed, sowing, interest on the land, and the number and value of the stock and implements required are the same for a small as for a large crop; and the cost of harvesting is but little more in the latter case. So that the difference between a ten and a thirty bushel crop is nearly all profit. But how shall this extra twenty bushels profit per acre be gained? By the use of sufficient manure, to make the increase. The fact that extra manuring makes an addition to the crop which is nearly all profit, is a fact seldom realized by farmers; but such is the case, as most will admit, after considering the above statements. The spreading of six cords of stable manure on two acres of land may not produce a crop which will more than pay the expenses of its production; put the same manure on one acre, and the chances are that just as much wheat will be harvested, and at little more than half the cost. For the generality of farmers it would be a safe rule to use what stable manure they have on half the area it is now applied to. But the largest return from the farm, and to utilize every acre, is a laudable ambition of every farmer. To do this, he cannot depend—as many do—on the natural fertility of the soil, or on stable manure; but he must resort to artificial fertilizers, which can now be bought in safety of reliable dealers, with reasonable certainty of getting what is bargained for. This piecing out of the farm and soil resources by use of honestly manufactured manures is working a revolution in American agriculture and in no department may it be better considered than in grain farming. In the use of these fertilizers, however, the same rule applies as with stable manure; that while a certain small amount per acre may produce a crop large enough to pay expenses, half as much more may cause a handsome profit. We could not advise, however, that a novice in the use of fertilizers should go to a large expense at first, but recommend small beginnings, though boldness may perhaps lead to a surprising success. When practicable the farmer may make a good wheat manure of 300 lbs. of superphosphate of lime containing ammonia (i. e., made of fresh bone,) or the same amount of fine bone composted for three months; this for use on an acre. Apply also—not mixing the two—all the unleached wood-ashes that can be got. An occasional liberal dressing of lime will improve wheat land which is already rich in organic matter.

But to grow wheat at a profit, the question of fertility is not the only point to be considered. In all the older States, wheat growing, to be successful, requires the best kind of farming. The best seed must be selected; for with poor seed, the best culture practiced can not produce a good crop. The variety chosen should be both prolific and hardy. The soil, as a rule, should be a fine clay loam, well drained, and contain a fair proportion of thoroughly decomposed organic matter. The plowing should be fully six or seven inches deep, the soil thoroughly pulverized and compact, with all the clods made fine; the seed drilled in early, and rolled, and the rows far enough apart to admit of several cultivations. Then, with a good season, and comparative freedom from insects and disease, and the use of proper implements in harvesting, a large and profitable crop may be expected. In the virgin soil of the extreme West, remunerative crops may perhaps still be raised by the old careless methods, but the time is close at hand when all these conditions will apply there as well as in the older sections of the country.—American Agriculturist.

Robbing the Soil.—Few farmers consider that each crop that is grown and removed from the soil has taken so much strength and virtue from it; that in the stalk and kernel is found the concentrated richness that was in the ground until transformed by the mysterious ways of nature in its transformation. Nature asks no aid from the husbandman, neither will it quietly brook being plundered, but instead, following each demand made upon it in the way of a crop, it is found reduced and worn, and will not again attain to its former merit until there is restored to it equally and in proportion as it has been taken from it.

Rotation in crops is demonstrated as being not only best, but demanded; the continual growing and gathering from the same field a harvest of the same or kindred product, will in due time deprive the soil in that field of the ability to produce that especial article, as it has taken from the soil all that is necessary for the successful production of that crop, and either fertilizers must be supplied, or the field will become wholly worthless, save for some other and entirely different kind of product.—When crops fail of themselves, the failure can, as a rule, be traced to the neglect of men, and not to the defect of nature, or mistake of the Creator. The soil is provided in a general state of richness; if continual demands are made upon it to produce, and no return offered in the way of remedies for its degenerating tendency, the outcome will be a thin crop from exhausted soil.

The principal products of the farm are of that class that are employed in feeding the great family of consumers, and consequently it is removed in bulk from the soil, and but a minimum portion of it remains to enrich the ground for another season, the stalks and straw are lost to it, and another robbery committed. Taking from the soil these vital principles and making no return for them, is reducing each year the value of the farms per acre, in dollars and cents.

This need not be, as the product from the soil taken and transformed into other conditions, such as compost, manure, and commercial fertilizers, if returned to the fields, will restore to the soil its strength, and keep it ever in condition to respond to the demands made by succeeding crops.—Factory and Farm.

It would be an interesting and we believe a profitable experiment to sow at least one acre of wheat in drills, so far apart that the crop could be cultivated. This may be done by tying each two of the drill spouts together, and those discharging the seed into one furrow, sowing somewhat less seed. Then the rows will be 12, 14, or 16 inches apart; and the spaces may be cultivated by adapting an ordinary spreading cultivator, or using a wheat hoe.—A yield of 60 to 80 bushels per acre has been obtained in this manner.—American Agriculturist.

Clover as a Cure for Hog Cholera.—The report of the Georgia Agricultural Department has a statement to the effect that forty cases of hog cholera were averted, if not cured, by turning the animals on to a quarter of an acre of clover, to graze for one week. It has long been held that this disease springs mainly from mal-nutrition, and too much feeding on corn or other carbonaceous food. The fact that clover—a nitrogenous fodder—in this case averted the threatened disease is of great interest. The culture and use of clover in the south may through this knowledge be greatly extended.

A bad custom is prevalent in many families, especially among farmers, of working an hour before breakfast, attending to "chores," hoeing the garden, cutting wood, mowing, etc. This is convenient on many accounts, but is not conducive to health. The prevalent opinion is that the morning air is the purest and the most healthful and bracing; but the contrary is the fact. At no hour of the day is the air more filled with dampness, fogs, and miasma than about sunrise. The heat of the sun gradually dissipates these miasmatic emanations as the day advances. An early meal braces up the system against these influences. Every one knows the languor and faintness often experienced for an hour in the morning, and this is increased by exercise and want of food. We do not agree with the boarding-school regime which prescribes a long walk before breakfast as a means of promoting health.

Sorrel.—Dr. Darlington says: "Improving the land especially by adequate dressings of lime, is believed to be the best mode of expelling this, as well as many other noxious plants," of which latter we might add the running dewberry brier as specially needing lime for its subjugation. I have often tried Dr. Darlington's receipt, and proved it to be good in all cases, so far as my observation goes. It is evidently the lime that is needed to correct the seeming acidity in the soil which promotes the growth of both this rumex and rubus. Improving the land without lime increases the sorrel, or makes it more luxuriant; but one good dressing of lime, (50 to 100 bushels per acre before it is slacked,) spread evenly as soon as slacked, and while in the fine powdered state, has caused every sign of these plants to disappear as soon as the lime has been mixed in by cultivation. When the effects of the lime have partly disappeared, after 10 to 15 years, the sorrel grows again, and the dose must be repeated.

A New Method of Preserving Fruits.—A foreign chemist has published a new method of preserving fruit which deserves a trial on a small scale, as it is so simple, yet it is deemed to be perfect in the preservation of the peculiar and original flavor. "Wash the specimens clean after gathering, and place in vessels a fluid composed of 200 to 300 grains of sugar to one litre of pure water, and 24 grains to 3 grains of salicylic acid. The pots or bottles, with their contents, are then closely covered with common writing paper, and so kept in a moderate temperature, as any excess of warmth would cause too great an evaporation of the water. In this way the professor has found by experience that plums, cherries, apricots, peaches, grapes, strawberries, etc., can be preserved in good, sound condition for a whole year, each fruit retaining its original and peculiar flavor as fine as when gathered."

To Tell a Full Ripened Water Melon.—When the melon begins to turn color inside, and its seed to turn black, a small black speck, scale, or blister begins to appear on the outer circle or rind. These are multiplied as the fruit matures. A ripe melon will show them thickly sown over the surface. A partial development only indicates half-ripened fruit. A full crop of blisters reveals its perfect ripeness. When hundreds of melons are strewn along the sidewalk, you will have to look pretty sharply to find one that exhibits a satisfactory "escutcheon," to borrow a term from M. Guenon, but it is unfailing when found, and by following this guide you may walk away with your melon with the most entire satisfaction. The blister is only to be seen by close inspection.

Tomato Soup.—One quart of tomatoes, peeled, cut in pieces and boiled in two quarts of water, with one large onion. After they have boiled one-half hour, slowly add one quart of milk, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one of pepper, rolled cracker sufficient to thicken it to your taste, and a small pinch of soda. This last is to prevent the milk curdling, and may be put in before the milk.

AUNT ADDIE.

Chocolate Jumbles.—One cupful of butter, two cupfuls of sugar, three cupfuls of flour, four eggs, two cupfuls of grated chocolate, and, if you do not use prepared flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, or one of soda and two of cream of tartar, and a little salt. Roll out thin.

AUNT ADDIE.

Smothered Chicken.—Dress young chickens; wash and let them stand in water half an hour to make them white; put into a baking pan (first cutting them open at the back;) sprinkle salt and pepper over them, and put a lump of butter here and there, then cover tightly with another pan the same size, and bake one hour; baste often with butter. A delicious dish.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington is engaged in making a chemical analysis of the grasses of this country to determine their relative nutritive qualities for feeding stock. It is stated that there are not less than twelve hundred varieties of grasses within the limits of the United States.

The following is said to be the formula for the mucilage used in the United States postage stamps: Dextrine, 2 ounces; acetic acid, 1 ounce; water, 5 ounces; alcohol, 1 ounce. Add the alcohol to the other ingredients when the dextrine is completely dissolved.

To destroy bugs on squashes and cucumber vines, dissolve a tablespoonful of saltpetre in a pailful of water, put a pint of this around each hill, shaping the earth so that it will not spread much, and the thing is done.

The best thing to clean a horse with is a corn cob scrubbing brush. It never can scratch his legs, as the curry-comb of tin does, while it does more work in the same time than curry-comb and brush put together.

INVALIDS,

DON'T DESPAIR!

THOUSANDS have found relief, and thousands will turn to this Medicine, after exhausting their purses and patience in search of health. Giddiness of the head, dullness of the mind, fetid breath, coated tongue, loss of appetite, pains and weakness in the stomach, enlargement of the liver, yellowness of the skin, constant fever and thirst, with a total disrelish for business, pleasure or any kind of employment. FAHRNEY'S PANACEA, if taken and persevered in for a few days, will remove this whole class of symptoms. The fluids of the body become pure, and mind clear, the stomach strengthened, the tongue clean, the appetite improved, and the whole system benefitted, that disease in bad weather, is less liable to afflict you.

TRADE Dr. P. FAHRNEY'S MARK.

—CELEBRATED—

Blood Cleanser or Panacea.

As a medicine for children, the Panacea is in every way calculated to take the place of the endless variety of drugs which are annually sold for that purpose and which are often very injurious. A medicine which possesses the qualities of a cathartic as well as a mild alterative, and which is capable of arresting disease without the least injury to the child, is of incalculable value to every mother. As a cathartic, it is very effective, yet it does not, if given in proper quantities, cause nausea or distress in the stomach or bowels. It is very pleasant to the taste, which is a very important feature as a medicine for children. As a preventive of disease it is unprecedented, as it acts directly upon the digestive organs and the blood. In all scrofulous diseases, it is the most effective medicine ever offered to the public; and, if given regularly and perseveringly, those eruptive diseases so common to children may be entirely eradicated.

Prepared by P. Fahrney's Bros. & Co., Waynesboro', Pa., and Dr. P. FAHRNEY, 38 North Dearborn Street, Chicago. For sale by wholesale and retail dealers, and by A. D. BUEHLER and J. M. HUBER, Gettysburg.

THE REPUTATION OF THE

DIAMOND SPECTACLES,

SOLD BY

A. R. FEISTEL,

The only Authorized Agent for this County,

IS becoming so great and widespread, that Spectacle Peddlers find it impossible to sell a common article, and are now selling the inferior as being the Diamond Spectacle. I would therefore CAUTION the public against buying any Diamond Spectacle not bearing this trade mark on each pair, as the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Company does neither supply nor employ peddlers.
